Come on go watch it so you can find out which side of the fence i'm on in this debate. Pro Gay crusaders don't really understand the concept of openmindedness and tolerance. Well, not in the way they see it... I guess they believe that 'Gay' men are just like any other men. They just happen to be attracted to other men. It's only a matter of time before these people become violent. I guess the only good thing to come out of all this is that more gay men and women are embracing who they are and living their lives peacefully and openly. Even though the gay community doesn't have it all together, in a way, it's a good thing to be able to express oneself and live openly and without fear.
